Rejuvenating an Existing Landscape

Kassandra Ryerson, Kaisner Landscaping

The phrase "the bones are good" often applies to houses, but it can also describe landscapes. Whether you have established plants that need a refresh or want to repurpose an old sidewalk, this workshop will show you how to work with what you have on a budget. Learn where to start, when to seek help, and how to design a plan to achieve your desired transformation.

Hummingbirds

Carol Csanda, McLean County Master Gardener

Looking to attract hummingbirds to your yard? In this workshop, you'll learn about these fascinating birds and how to entice them to your garden. We will explore their unique characteristics and discuss the types of plants they love.

Succulent Creations: Make and Take

Discover the variety of succulent types, their unique characteristics, and why they're ideal for both indoor and outdoor gardens. Then, roll up your sleeves and get creative as you design a stunning arrangement with these easy-to-care-for, drought-resistant plants! Attendees will have the option to craft either a beautiful succulent wreath or a charming succulent mushroom.
